Instructor to Student Contact:

In this era of Shelter in Place as a result of COVID-19, it can be lonely learning online, but I don't want you to feel like you are in this alone. I am here to help. I enjoy working with students and want you to know that your success is paramount to me. An open channel of communication contributes to that success; therefore, here is my promise to you:

- The best way to get in touch with me is via the Canvas Inbox, or you can also email me at takyioduro@fhda.edu. I will get back to you within 24 hours.
- I will send out weekly announcements in the Announcement Forum to keep you up-to-date on the course.
- I will grade your work within 72 hours of the due date, provide feedback to help you improve your assignments, and accept revisions when needed.
- I will foster an atmosphere of respect, trust, and collegiality.

Course Description:

This course examines the principles of communication in the workplace. The course introduces students to common formats such as the memo, letter, and report, and helps students improve writing skills to gain greater mastery of grammar, mechanics, and style. Students learn techniques for writing informational, persuasive, sales, employment, good news, and bad news communications. Other topics include using the appropriate strategies for internal and external communication situations, audience analysis, and communication through recent technology, including e-mail, video-conferencing, and presentations.

Requisites: Advisory - EWRT 211 and READ 211 (or LART 211), or ESL 272 and 273.

Student Learning Outcomes:

Upon successful completion of the course, you should be able to:

- Describe and apply the principles of written and verbal business communications.
- Develop and use a variety of communication strategies that are effective in different business situations.
- Identify the most effective written and oral communication skills that fit personal communication style and situation.

Course Objectives:

By the end of the course, you should be able to:

- Learn and use basic principles of effective business communication
- Understand the impact of verbal and written communication on interpersonal relationships.
- Compose letters that are clear, concise and complete
- Learn how to achieve maximum impact with written messages.
- Learn to compose the most common types of business correspondence and other written materials.
- Apply communication skills learned in the class.
- Learn how to use LinkedIn to connect with potential employers and other business professionals in the network.
- Learn how to effectively communicate across cultures.

Required Text: Essentials of Business Communication, by Mary Ellen Guffey, and Dana Loewy (Boston, Cengage, 2019). Eleventh Edition. ISBN = 9781337386494. The bookstore also has an eBook available.

Highly Recommended Applications:

A full-featured word processing program such as Word, WordPerfect, or OpenOffice is recommended. Office 2010 is available at the De Anza Bookstore at educational prices for students.

OpenOffice is downloadable for free from www.openoffice.org. For assignments needing only basic word processing features, a web-based service can be used. Some of these include Google Docs at <http://docs.google.com>, Zoho at <http://www.zoho.com> and Buzzword at <http://acrobat.com>. Windows Mobile, Blackberry, Palm, iPhone, and Android versions are available for your Smartphone.

Recommended Applications:

Other nice to have programs include a graphics/presentation program such as Microsoft's PowerPoint, Google's Presentations, or Apple's Keynote; a personal information manager program such as Outlook, Google Calendar, and others; and an organizer such as EverNote or OneNote. Many of these are available as both desktop and apps. A cloud app you may want is Dropbox.com for online storage of your files. It lets you access your files from any Internet connected desktop, Smartphone, and/or slate. In your presentations, you can also record your voice with your slides using a free tool like Jing.

Computer Access:

You can use the computers in the library to access computer applications and the web. With a Wi-Fi enabled laptop, slate, or Smartphone, you can access the Internet from many hotspots on campus.

Requirements:

- Orientation: Complete the orientation on Distance Learning at <https://sway.com/p6KDTuWl0k3kztfq>
- Canvas Student Guide: <https://deanza.instructure.com/courses/272>
- Reading and Review: This is a 12-week course compressed into a 6-week summer schedule. Each week you should read the assigned chapters of the textbook and view the corresponding PowerPoint presentation.
- Assignments

Assignments are based on questions from the textbook. These assignments will be evaluated according to the Assignment Rubric indicated in the table below. There are no make-ups if you miss an assignment deadline.

Assignment Rubric

Criteria	A Level Work Outstanding Response	B Level Work Good Response	C Level Work Marginal Response
Completeness	Questions have been fully answered. Followed all directions	Questions fully answered, brief explanations, missed some directions	Assigned questions are skipped or ignored

- Discussions

Discussions are based on chapters from the textbook. Contributing to and participating in the discussions are requirements of the course. These discussion forums allow you to demonstrate your understanding of course concepts and learn from the experiences of your classmates.

Discussions - General Guidelines & Expectations

If you've taken an online course before, then you're likely aware that discussions are often a significant part of these courses. Although different, these discussions are meant to take the place of both the in-class discussions we might have if we were meeting in a classroom, as well as some of the exercises we would work through to generate some conversation.

Student Expectations

TRY

The purpose of discussions is to explore material together. This means I am not always expecting you to have the right answer. Make a sincere effort to engage with the material. Be willing to support each other or pitch in with guidance if you see a classmate struggling. Remember: The purpose of a discussion is to test ideas, make mistakes in a low-stakes environment, and use it as a spring board to improve.

RESPECT

A big challenge of online communication is that many of the nonverbal signals that accompany verbal messages are gone. If someone presents a viewpoint different than yours, do not go immediately on the offensive. If a post upsets you, read it, breathe, and then come back to respond when you've had time to relax and do so with a cooler head.

Grading Criteria for discussions: For written discussions, I do not set a specific word count other than expecting your initial post to be longer than your responses to your classmates. These are the general criteria I look at when assessing a grade on a discussion:

- Completeness: Does it answer the prompt of the discussion?
- Coherent: Does the post stay on topic (for the most part)
- Grammar: Does the post contain numerous spelling and typographical errors (this is where typing your post on a phone can get you in trouble; remember, spellcheck is always out to get you on mobile devices)
- Punctuality: Is the post on time?

Essentially, as long as you post on time, make an attempt to answer the prompt, and don't go off on too wild a tangent, you'll do fine on discussions.

Overall Grading for the course: Because writing is a skill, all your work and the final course grade will be evaluated on a performance scale rather than a curve. Assignments are based on both your knowledge about writing concepts and your application of these concepts to a variety of writing assignments.

Indicated below are the weighting of various components of your final grade and the scale used to determine the course grade.

ASSIGNMENT	POINTS
Assignments	350 = 35%
Discussions	350 = 35%
Power Point Investment Club Report Presentation	150 = 15%
Cover Letter, Resume & LinkedIn Profile	150 = 15%
TOTAL	1000 = 100%

Grading Scale Based on Points:

970 - 1000	A+
930 - 969	A
900 - 929	A-
860 - 899	B+
830 - 859	B
800 - 829	B-
760 - 799	C+
700 - 759	C
660 - 699	D+
630 - 659	D
600 - 629	D-
0 - 599	F

- Late Assignments: Points will be deducted for late assignments. If you fail to participate in the discussions, instructor cannot reopen it for you. If you do not comment on the post of a fellow student, you will be graded on your post only.
- Attendance/On Time Policy: This is an asynchronous online course, which means we will not have an official meeting time or place (actual or virtual). Instead the success of this course depends on your keeping up with the syllabus, your level of involvement with Canvas, and the online activities Canvas.

Even though it is asynchronous, it does not mean that there is no time component. In fact, the success of many of the activities depends on your participation in a timely manner.

If for any reason, you are facing any difficulties, or encountering any issues which prevents you from submitting your assignment on time, please let me know; I cannot read your mind.

- Dropping: There is a deadline for drops. After the deadline neither you nor your instructor can drop you. If, for whatever reason, you choose to drop or withdraw from this course, it is your responsibility alone to initiate the drop or withdraw by the appropriate deadline, either online or in person. Since this is an online class, instructor will drop students who fail to submit two consecutive assignments.
- Withdrawal: A 'W' is assigned to drops after the first two weeks of a regular 12-week term and/or 20% of a course if a shorter term course. A 'W' will be assigned to all drops between 20% and 75% of a term.
- Incomplete Grades: An 'incomplete' grade is only appropriate for verifiable unforeseen illness/injury or other unforeseen emergency situations; not doctor's appointments you forgot you had and did not reschedule, jury duty you could have requested to do after the quarter is over, or because you forgot to drop in time. At least 75% of the class must have been completed to qualify for an 'Incomplete' status.
- Important Dates: Academic Calendar: <http://www.deanza.edu/calendar/>
- Academic Integrity: I don't expect you to cheat in this class but, for all your classes, you should be aware of the college Academic Integrity Policy and its consequences for students. You will be required to comply with all rules and regulations as outlined in the De Anza College Student Handbook <http://www.deanza.edu/studenthandbook/index.html> (especially the section on academic integrity <http://www.deanza.edu/studenthandbook/academic-integrity.html>) as well as any in the De Anza College Catalog <http://www.deanza.edu/publications/catalog/>).

All information in the student handbook applies in this course and students will be held accountable for this information. In addition to outlining expectations of classroom behavior, the handbook contains many helpful resources for students.

In the handbook you will find descriptions of cheating and plagiarism: “Cheating is the act of obtaining or attempting to obtain credit for academic work through the use of dishonest, deceptive or fraudulent means... Plagiarism is representing the work of someone else as your own” (and the Student Handbook gives many detailed examples), and these statements: “It is the student’s responsibility to know what constitutes academic dishonesty...When students are caught cheating or plagiarizing, a process is begun which may result in severe consequences.” The consequences can include “receiving a failing grade on the test, paper or exam...receiving a grade of F in the course...being placed on disciplinary probation...suspension.”
